Dear Home Secretary Sajid Javid,

We are some of the tens of thousands of international students unjustly robbed of our visas and our rights by the Home Office in 2014 after we were accused of cheating on an English test. We are innocent but the government gave us no real way to defend ourselves, so we've been fighting for five years just to clear our names.

The Department you lead ruined our lives and stole our futures. It branded us as frauds, forcing us to bear a lifelong mark of shame, while never presenting any evidence at all against most of us.

Many of us are destitute, barely able to live from day to day. Many of us are on medication for stress or depression. Many of us have been rejected by our families, who are shamed by the allegation of cheating. Some of us have tried to kill ourselves.

Home Secretary, you have said you are sympathetic. Twice in the last three months we have been promised a statement from you about the Government's next steps, but you have chosen to keep silent. You were given a chance to defend your Department at the recent APPG hearings on this issue, but you did not come.

Home Secretary, you are our last hope and we need to hear from you. Please tell us what our futures will be. It is within your power to put this right.

Best wishes,
